

Lancet Neurology

Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis: Current Perspectives and Neuroprotective Strategies

Abstract & Clinical Learning:

ALS (Lou Gehrig's disease) is characterized by the progressive degeneration of motor neurons. This review discusses the role of glutamate excitotoxicity and the clinical impact of Riluzole in extending survival. Future directions in gene therapy (SOD1, C9orf72) are analyzed.